Price Set For U.K. Support

(BUP)—The British delegation to the Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Conference has proposed Canada-United Kingdom free trade area.

The British proposal is inter-preted by Canadian circles as the United Kingdom's price for support of the Tory govern-ment's plan of expansion and loser integration of common wealth trade.

PRACTICAL TERMS

In brief, it is regarded as the ranslation into practical terms by both the British government and trade authorities of the general views in favor of closer velopment of commonwealth ide which Prime Minister Diefenbaker expressed at the ecent conference in London.

while no comment upon the free trade proposal was obtainable from any member of the Canadian delegation, it was clear that the far-reaching nature of the proposition had been definitely thought-provoking.

Canadian sources intimated that the United Kingdom had interjected a new and vital element of bargaining into the Disfenbaker government's commonwealth trading scheme.

The question now was, these ources suggested, whether the

BILATERAL TALKS

Mr. Thorneycroft confirmed reports that Britain will propose that Canada unite with the U.K. in reducing tariffs between the two countries over a long-term period, perhaps 12 years or so.

He said Britain will make that proposal in bilateral talks with Canada that take place at Ottawa next Wednesday.

OWN QUESTIONS

The U.K., he anded, could raise any questions it chooses at the bilateral talks. Canada might raise questions of its own but he declined to say what these may be.

Mr. Thorneycroft said the U.K. proposal of an Anglo-Canadian free trade area would be put forward as a way of implementing the suggestion of Prime Minister John Diefenbaker that Canada switch 15 per cent of her imports from the United States to Britain.

ALLABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

A PASSAGEWAY leading from The Daily Colonist office opens upon a flat tar and gravel roof. For some time now vegetation has been accumulating on that roof: lichens, mosses, and more recently, flowering weeds of one kind and another.

This year visitors to the root were much sur-prised when garden vegetables began sprouting in two or three small heaps of moss.

There were two kinds of vegetable: green beans and a lush trailing plant which some observers said was a marrow and others declared to be a melon.

When I got involved in these coffee-break dis-putes, I suggested that the lush plant was a pumpkin. After a while the plant put forth large vivid yellow flowers.

Several interesting theories were put forward to explain the vegetables. Were the seeds dropped there by seagulls which had raided the garbage scow? Did they fail from someone's pocket? Or did some eccentric plant them?

The last theory was the most popular. Eccentrics are fairly common in this neighborhood.

One of the yellow flowers produced a round fruit. It was a pumpkin, just as I had said. I should know. I planted the seeds. Now that harvest-time is here, I might as well confess. I pollinated the pumpkin flower myself, with a piece of cotton wool

Canadian Chamber of Commerce

BRITISH Columbia and its capital will give an unreserved welcome to the officers and delegates of the Canadian officers and delegates of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce arriving with their wives this afternoon by boat and plane from Vancouver for their five-day annual meeting in Victoria. Under the leadership of Mr. Raymond Dupuis, president, the Canadian Chamber represents 763 chambers and boards across the nation, 103 of which are in this province. Provincial and civic welcomes, five panels Provincial and evice welcomes, the parties of speakers with discussion on many interrelated business problems, and the annual election of officers will keep the visitors busy until the close of the convention on Thursday.

Thursday.

Victoria is accustomed to large-scale conventions, but not within memory has it had the pleasure of receiving such an important cross-section of the business world of the nation. The roster reads like a Who's Who of nationally known figures who have been in the forefront of Canada's amazing industrial advance in the last decade. Their presence here of Canada's amazing in the last decade.

is in direct tribute to British Columbia, whose own growth has been on a phenomenal plane in the same period. It is more than that, for it is a guarantee that this senior Canadian business group is thinking in national terms with a wide-angled view of the inter-relation of industry in all 10 propriets.

It is no secret that British Columbia and Victoria chambers have been working full time to make this a memorable occasion for their visiting colleagues, with the co-operation of the weatherman. Victoria is at the peak of its autumnal attractiveness in what up to now has been an ideal Indian Summer. The business schedule of the large convention has been organized with recreation also in mind, and our hope is that full advantage will be taken of this to see as much of the capital of British Columbia, and of Vancouver Island, as may prove possible under the circumstances. Right welcome among the visifors—also will be their international guests; including Mr. Philip M. Talbott, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

No More Than Its Duty

CRITICS of the provincial government for its policy of retrenchment by way of reduction in staff should bear in mind the fact that a government does not exist to provide jobs out of public funds. Its first duty is to the taxpayers, who in the case of a province comprise the whole population. Its civil service should be no larger than is necessary to provide efficient administration. It is not a government's function to create unnecessary positions, or maintain them if they have already been created, just for the purpose of keeping people employed.

In order that a government may be able to retain a competent staff there must be the element of security which comes from permanency of appointment. That is not to be disturbed by the British Columbia government's announced policy of staff reduction. No one, according to the statement of Premier and Finance the statement of Premier and Minister Bennett, is going to be fired from the civil service simply to enable the government to save money. The policy will be to drop redundant posts from the civil service list when they fall vacant, and to meet abnormal or spasmodic pressure by means of temporary appointments.

Civil service staffs everywhere, at all Civil service staffs everywhere, at all levels of government, have a way of growing out of hand numerically. It is the provincial government's declared purpose to put a stop to this so far as B.C. is concerned. Whether or not it will succeed in reducing the staff by 5 per cent gradually as opportunities arise remains to be seen; but if it does the government will be no more than discharging an obligation to the public as a whole.

It is difficult to see how anyone is going to be hurt unfairly in the process. The protest from some quarters that this policy is in retaliation for pay increases won recently by the employees' organization is irrelevant even if it were founded on fact. Through those increases the tion is irrelevant even if it were founded on fact. Through those increases the government has been confronted with a heavy and unbudgeted drain on public funds, and it is its duty to use all legitimate and practical means to avoid passing along to the taxpayers any more of the extra burden than is necessary. In any case, pay increases or no pay increases, if this or any other government finds itself with more staff than it can usefully sealers if has a responsibility to retrenct. employ it has a responsibility to retrench.

One Day Remains

MONDAY will be the last day for municipal electors in the Greater Victoria area to make sure of effective registration on municipal voters' lists for the coming December elections. It must be done in person by a call at the municipal halls concerned. Municipal officials have put the facts before the community intelligently, and this effort deserves a uniform and widespread public response. A change in the Municipal Act leaves Sept. 30 as the last day of voters' registration. Property-owners, paying taxes, are enrolled automatically. No one else is, and no provision exists to enrol them unless they attend to that themselves.

There will be time later on to argue

There will be time later on to argue as to whether or not the Municipal Act is adequate in its present form. The need now is for municipal electors to make sure that their names are on the voters' lists; because there will be little cure for omissions once the official lists are printed. Without public response the change in the system could disfranchise a large body of tenant-electors in the Greater Victoria area. There is no need for this to happen. Every adult elector is concerned in the administration of municipal business in the community, and should have enough interest to make sure that his name will be printed on the voters' list. There is just one day left to make sure of it.

The process of registration is simple, and free. Qualified electors are enrolled at their personal request, without fee or ceremony other than that they are asked to declare the truth of their assertions. The task takes about 45 seconds. That is not much time out of the day, when it retains for the elector-his right to exercise his choice and his will in the administration of public business. It is conceded that the warning this time has been short, and that August and September — the holiday months—were not ideal for the purpose of registration. The need, however, is to make the system work as it stands. That is now the obligation of the individual.

Gunboat Diplomacy

BY DOBOTHY THOMPSON

MERICA'S policy-making offi-A cials do not understand even the rudkments of the principles that should govern the behavior of a great world power in the middle 20th cen-

Here we are,

"the world-leader"
as Mr. Truman, when he was president, used to blat. That is the first thing not*to do—whether or not the country's wealth surpasses relatively or absolutely that of any other nation or absolutely that of any other nation or combine of nations. A great power should behave like a gentleman and gentlemen don't brag. Besides, the poor have never loved the rich but rather envied them, and when the rich continually advertise, their wealth and benevolence as well, they

A great power that by its own advertised admission has no peers and nothing to fear from any other power or combination of them ahould never become hysterical, paint bogeys on the wall, or summon to arms in a "serious crisis" if some two-by-four state snuggles up to a power rival.

From the fanfare and viewings with alarm that have been going on about Syrla, smaller than a second-sized American city, one would think that Syria held in its hands the fate of Western civilization and the bal-ance of power between the West and the East. What nonsense!

Now Syria has a left-wing military government that is, reportedly, making soft eyes at the Russians and the Eastern bloc. Probably half the Syrians, who have never been anywhere near unanimous about any Syrian government in the short lifetime of its independence, don't like this present government. Neither do any of Syrla's neighbors with the possible (but by no means certain) exception of Egypt.

But no Arab state or Israel either, unless assured of Western support, is unless assured of Western support, is going to take any overt action. How can they? The Eastern Mediterranean is guarded by the U.S. Sixth Fleet and air bases from Turkey to North Africa. The Russians are, for military purposes, light-years away, and every Arab statesman knows it.

So what does this great power do? It rushes arms to Syria's neighbors in the midst of high-powered pub-licity—and one has to have been in the newspaper trade for some time to see how such things click. Bleachers are built in Amman (Jordan) from to view (under Klieg lights the strival of the American airlift of arms.

There are influences playing up the State Department that wou really like to incite a military show lower in the Arab Middle East and down in the Arab shows who they are. But the president and Mr. Dulles do not desire this showdown. They only play "like as if."

Mr. Dulles just does not understand the mid-20th century or that gunboat lomacy doesn't work any m diplomacy. Anyone who knows any thing at all about the Arab Middle East—even as little as I do—can pre-dict the reaction, as indeed we did a few columns back.

Mr. Dulles should keep his shirt or America will eventually lose its pants. Diplomacy is not a series of publicity stunts, and great powers don't need press agents. They need to exercise dignity, restraint, and

THE appointment of Lord Hail- the Conservatives. The welfare state, sham as the chairman of the Conservative Party in Britain with cabinet responsibility as Lord President of the Council - virtually a minister without portfolio - is the first tangible evidence that Mr. Macmillan recognizes the need for strengthening party organization and maintaining closer contact with the rank and file.

Lord Halisham is the man for the job and if anyone can restore con-fidence he will—but his task will not be easy. At the same time he is also the man best able to convince cabinet of the trends in public opinion within and without the party and from personal acquaintance with Lord Hailsham for several years I think it safe to say that his personal opinions at the moment more likely to be on the side of the

What has happened within the Conservative ranks may be illustrated by the attitude of many important popple within the party. I have spoken to branch secretaries and chairmen who have said quite blunily that they refuse to vote Conservative at the moment. They certainly will not vote Labor or Liberal and their attitude is inspired by pas-sive resistance. The by-election results underline the attitude; in many instances the increased Labor majori-ties have resulted from a decline in Conservative votes, and where the Conservative candidate has been returned votes cast for him have de clined—often alarmingly.

More and more it is being regarded as something which cannot be founded. Since thing which cannot be touched. Simi-larly nationalized industries are tending to dominate policy instead of being directed by it. Economic prob-lems are still being treated with the pills of doctrinaire socialism. One of the main planks of Conservative policy, for example, was home ownership. #### Quitting the Farm

It is not often that one can find fault with the articles written by Dorothy Thompson, but in her article in the Colonist of Wednesday I think she has overlooked something of importance to her subject when she speaks of "social responsibility" as meaning to put just a little more into responsibility" as meaning to put just a little more into the social kitty than one takes out of it. Speaking of husiness generally it takes the entirely opposite view of laking a little more out of the kitty than one puts into it. This little more is called profit.

The farmers do not come into the scheme at all. Yet they are the only real producers of wealth in society. No farmer ever gets the cost of production as it is arranged in industry. He is lucky if he gets a decent living out of it for himself and family without any profit.

He never reckons high wages for himself as the manager of the farm. He never reckons wages for his wife and family. That is one reason why so many young men are leaving the farm; $30 a month in industry looks like a fortune to farmers' sons who never got more than an allowance of $10 or $20 pocket money at the end on the month. Besides that, there is the five-day week of 40 hours in industry as against a 72-hour week on the farm. And if there are cows to be milked, someone has to be there morning and evening every day in the year.

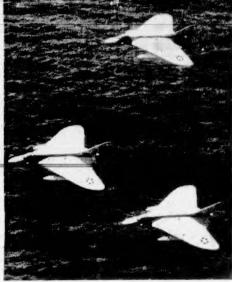

Is it to be wondered that farmers' sons are leaving the farms? What is society going to do for its milk and eggs and beef and pork and cabbages in the not too distant future?

CHICAGO (AP)-American Motors said yesterday it will drop Nash and Hudson automobiles brand names and will market all of its 1.8.-huilt cars under the Rambler name in 1958.

Roy Abernathy, vice-president of automotive distribution and marketing, said the firm will enter a new car in the lower middle price bracket. This will be the Ambassador V-8 by Rambler. He said the company will "concentrate 100 per cent on the compact car trend."

WHEN BOMBS FELL

THE POPE is officially Supreme Pontiff from the moment of his election, but his coronation has always been looked upon as the symbolic expression of his assumption of that high office. Eugenio Pacelli was elected on March 2, 1939. He named March 12 as the day of his coronation. He decided that the coronation should be held in full view of the people of Rome. This would be the first time since before 1870 that a Pope had been crowned in public.

THE SECOND HENRY FORDS have two teen aged daughters, Charlotte and Anne, at the Sacred Heart Convent School in Norton, Conn., and an eight-year-old son. Edsel, who goes to Grosse Pointe University School, the same school his grandfather and father attended when it was heated in downtown Detroit.

Young Henry's wife, Anne, is one of the 14 children of James F. McDonnell, a New York investment broker, and a granddaughter of Thomas E. Murray, the Consolidated Edison (o. tycoon, She grew up in a crowded 29-room apartment on Fifth Avenue. Her family was always glad to escape in the summer to their less confining 54-room cottage at Southampton, Long Island.

Chuckles for Certain Behind Crumpet Curtain

Victoria may be best remembered by home-bound Canadian Chamber of Commerce delegates as the convention city that inserted a smale in the otherwise good grey and semis business of business. Buil for the smales is purery Victorian in nature—a much-kidded fown taking up the elbow to give itself a few gentle dust in the ribs with assistance Lion some probass, and rib degrees.

Theme of the host city's ambitious schedule of events for the convention guests is 'Crashing the Crumpet Curtain'

The aim: to emphasize the difference of Victoria from all other cities where the Canadian Chamber from all other has not in the past "We're going to make them laugh not only at nuiselyes but also at themselves," warned a chamber official, noting that the national body will not go

"The business end of a convention is pretty serious stuff," the official said. "So we have concentrated on the lighthearted." The "crumpet curtain" theme has been carried into every phase of convention like next week, trem Nortis cartoon place mats and "unusual" table decorative themes to laper buttons of a "special order" and the attractive social program book at In the latter, the top event for each day is jubbed by Norris' cartoon pen, from the expected Constantible devote to the provincial government's direct and the vincoal banquet and duree Additional ausochooliest entertainment by Vietness and the second property will "high-hugh".

The foot guards' band will play at a ceremony on Tuesday, Oct. 15, when Queen Elizabeth opens a new super-highway project in Ottawa to be named after her.

It's always nice to have such an honor, one guards' officer said of the bands' role. It's would have been even nicer had the whole unit been chosen to make up the guard of honor when the Queen opens Parliament.
